

HUNTING GUIDE

MODERN HUNTING, WITHOUT THE GUESSWORK

CONTENTS

- ☒ CO General Info
- ☒ Unit Specific Info
- ☒ Heat Map
- ☒ Recommendations

INTRODUCTION

We sincerely appreciate your decision to choose Data Hunt Guide for your upcoming hunt. It's a privilege to be part of your hunting journey, and we're thrilled to assist you in your pursuit. Our team dedicates significant effort to pinpoint sightings your unit, providing you with a valuable starting point to enhance your chances of a successful harvest.

DHG COLORADO SPECIES

IMPORTANT INFO

Adaptability

Species may not be at these exact locations. Use the data as a starting point. Look for ridges, hills, or higher spots nearby. Remember to stay flexible; animals don't follow trails like humans. Also, Check wind before choosing a glassing spot.

Safety Precautions

Prioritize safety by sharing your hunt plan and preparing for emergencies

Physical and Mental Preparedness

Train physically and mentally for hunting challenges.

First Aid awareness

Carry a well-equipped first aid kit and know how to use it.

Navigation Skills

Master map reading and compass navigation as a backup.

YOUR HEAT MAP

UNIT INTRO

Unit 62 is a good deer unit. We have a lot of data to help you with your hunt. These sightings are from specific points in time, and while they're consistent from year to year, deer may or may not be in the areas shared.

Regardless, DHG provides excellent starting points for success on your hunt. We included static maps to help orient you to our sightings and an interactive heat map to help you narrow your search.

It is your responsibility to stay in compliance with hunting regulations.

SUMMARY

We have lot of deer sightings in Unit 62. Our first location is a collection of deer sightings around Ridgeway State Park

We also have deer sightings east of the Gunnison River near Escalante and west of Silesca Pond.

The area with by far the greatest number of deer sightings in Unit 62 is out near Long Point Mountain and Uncompaghre Butte.

UNIT MAPS

SPECIAL LOCATIONS

The area where we found a good number of large bucks is near Uncompaghre Butte. This area likely sees fewer visitors than other locations.

CONSIDERATIONS

Some of our sightings in Unit 62 are at ~8,000-9,000 feet and have high number of riparian areas. Prepare accordingly for the lower oxygen levels and higher probability of bugs.

How We Gather and Crunch the Numbers

Hey there, hunter! We're here to give you the best shot at bagging that big one by serving up some top-notch data. Here's how we get the goods and make it work for you:

1. Open Source Data (The Good Stuff)

We pull data from over 20 reputable open source data warehouses. Think public databases, not your cousin's Instagram hunting brag posts. We respect your privacy and your epic hunting tales. We never have and never will use information from hunters. Period.

2. Historical Data (Back in the Day)

We've been collecting info for over 23 years. Yup, we've got data older than some of your hunting buddies. This gives us a solid grasp of where those game animals like to hang out.

3. Data Analysis (Our Nerds Get Busy)

Our team of number-crunching wizards dives into this treasure trove of data. Using advanced statistical methods and fancy geographic information systems (GIS), we pinpoint the best spots where game animals have been chilling over the years.

4. Content Creation (The Fun Part)

After all that analysis, we whip up user-friendly and actionable content just for you. This means detailed maps, area descriptions, and pro tips to help you score big. We make it easy, so you can focus on the hunt.

By leveraging all this sweet data and our thorough analysis, we aim to boost your hunting success while keeping things sustainable and responsible.

Legal Jargon

No Guarantees (But We're Cheering for You)

We're giving you the best info we've got on where game animals might be lurking. But hey, they're wild and free, and we can't promise you'll find or bag one. That's the thrill of the hunt, right?

Risky Business (Be Safe Out There)

Hunting can be dangerous. By using our service, you're accepting all the risks that come with it, from twisted ankles to scary run-ins with wildlife. You're in charge of your safety and the safety of those around you. Keep your wits about you!

Follow the Rules (No Cheating)

You're responsible for knowing and following all the hunting laws and regulations in your area. This means getting the right permits, sticking to hunting seasons, and playing by the rules. Be a good sport and hunt ethically.

Land Access (Don't Be That Guy)

Make sure you're allowed to hunt where you're heading. Trespassing on private land or restricted areas is a no-go. Respect property rights and get permission if you need it. Nobody likes a gate-crasher.

Indemnification (Legal Word Alert)

By using our service, you agree to keep us out of any trouble. If something goes sideways—whether it's an injury, property damage, or a run-in with the law—you're agreeing to handle it yourself. We're here to help, but we can't cover your legal bills.

No Sharing (Your Packet is Just for You)

The hunting packet provided is for your personal use only. Sharing it with other hunters is not allowed. By using our service, you're saying you've read, understood, and agreed to this whole spiel. Now, go out there and make us proud! Happy hunting!